Saints of the week

St. Augustine, 354-430 August 28th

Bishop of Hippo, where he lived with a community until his death. His theological influence has been most significant in the Church especially on the understanding of God's grace. Patron of theologians.

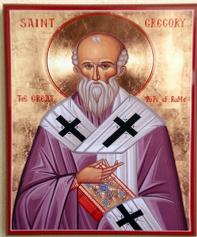

The Beheading of John the Baptist August 29th St. Fiacre. August 30th

Was an Irishman who went abroad to a hermitage near Breuil, where he remained until his death c. 670. devotion to the saint was more popular in France than in Ireland. He was renowned for his work in horticulture at this hermitage, and is patron saint of gardeners

Gregory the Great, 540 -604 September 3rd

A Roman noble who was Prefect of the City before becoming a monk. As Pope he established a pattern for the papacy in years to come. He sent missions to Lombardy, Sardinia and England. Patron of musicians

St. Dengus MacNissi September 4th

Took his name from his mother Ness. It is claimed that Patrick baptised him and taught him the psalms. He chose the district of Connor for his hermitage, but later became bishop of his clan. He died early in the sixth century

World day of prayer for the care of creation 1st Sept

We pray that we all might be open to listen to the cry of the Earth and the cry of the Poor, especially those people of the South who are facing the harsh reality of climate change. Lord, hear us

We pray for your creation, the whole cosmos including our common home, and the intricate balance in every part of the ecosystems that sustains life on Earth. Lord, hear us.

O God of the poor, help us to rescue the abandoned and forgotten of this earth, so precious in your eyes. Bring healing to our lives, that we may protect the world and not prey on it, that we may sow beauty, not pollution and destruction. Touch the hearts of those who live only for gain at the expense to the poor of the earth. Lord, hear us

Change begins today

For Pope Francis, responding to the threat faced by the environment is the most pressing task for our day.

The future of our children and of the world depends on what we do today. He does not see the most important responses to climate warming to lie in better technology but in the decisions that we all make. They reach from the small choices we make each day about how to travel to work and what we eat and drink to the huge decisions that government leaders make after long deliberation about how to cut emissions from cars, from farming and from power generation. We can save and nurture our world if we care about it, want to save it, decide to do what we can, and then do it. That is why Pope Francis in his monthly prayer intention for September 2021 prays that we all will make courageous choices. Good and lasting choices express our enthusiasms. The things that we choose are close to our heart, occupy our thoughts and dreams, and so naturally flow into our plans, our reading, our friendships and our hobbies. These things compose what Pope Francis calls our lifestyle. This is the cloak in which we wrap ourselves. It is, woven out of the thousands of threads of decisions that we make daily – what to wear, what to eat, how to get to work, how to spend our spare time, what we spend our money on, where we live, what news items to attend to, what stories we allow to touch our hearts, what causes we support, who we partner with, and so on. A simple lifestyle is one in which the threads form a pattern of buying only what we need, walking lightly on the earth, delighting in activities that do not need expensive equipment but bring us close to nature, and celebrating lightly. It is a lifestyle built around direct relationships with other people, with our environment and our society in which we delight in sharing our hearts and minds. We are not interested in piling up money and possessions or in consuming the world's resources but on respect for the environment of which we are part.
